Pay Quartiles by Gender

This table shows the percentage of men and women in each hourly pay quartile, with band A being the lowest paid and band D the highest paid quartile.

Band	Males	Females
A	41%	59%	All employees whose standard hourly rate is within the lower quartile
B	28%	72%	All employees whose standard hourly rate is more than the lower quartile but the same or less than the median
C	34%	66%	All employees whose standard hourly rate is more than the median but the same or less than the upper quartile
D	44%	56%	All employees whose standard hourly rate is within the upper quartile

All employees within the Group that carry out the same role are paid the same hourly rate irrespective of gender. All pay levels are regularly fully reviewed, with all job roles being fully evaluated to ensure fairness and are commensurate with the level of responsibilities and skills required.

Bonus Pay

The gender pay gap in bonus pay for both mean and median is 0%, as no bonuses were paid in the reporting period.

How does our Gender Pay Gap compare?

When comparing the median gender pay gap for the whole economy (according to the October 2024 Office for National Statistics (ONS) Annual Survey of Hours and Earnings (ASHE) figures) is 13.1%. At 1.5%, our median gender pay gap is significantly lower than the whole economy, there has been a reduction of 2.3% from 3.8% in 2023, which continues to be in line with ONS reports that “the gender pay gap has been declining slowly over time”.

Gender Pay Gap

WLG is fully committed to doing everything it can to reduce the gender pay gap. We are confident that our gender pay gap is not because we pay men and women differently for the same or equivalent work. Instead, our gender pay gap is because men and women work in different roles and those roles have different salaries. Since our report in first report in 2022 our mean gender hourly pay gap, in favour of males, has reduced significantly from 17% to 6.5% in 2024, primarily due to more females being in higher paid management roles.

We will continue to monitor and review pay levels across the whole group and continue to promote equal pay.
